

EGYPT EXPLORATION ORGANIZATION OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

PRESENTS
a benefit concert & lecture

One Night Only!
An Exclusive Los Angeles Premiere
Direct From Europe

Saturday, Oct. 17, 2015, 5:00 p.m.

WILSHIRE MARQUIS COMMUNITY ROOM
10535 Wilshire Blvd., Deck Level, Los Angeles, CA 90024

Love Songs of the Pharaohs

Performance & Lecture

Dr. Heidi Köpp-Junk

Associate Professor of Egyptology, Universität Trier, Germany and Renowned International Opera Singer & Chanteuse

For the first time in almost 3,500 years, this is your chance to see and hear ancient Egyptian love songs brought back to life from the time of Pharaoh Ramses the Great and Queen Nefertari.

Dr. Köpp-Junk is an Egyptologist with the German Archaeological Institute Cairo—as well as a classically trained, three-octave mezzosoprano known internationally for her concert, radio and television appearances. She will first present an academic lecture about Pharaonic love songs, including where they were found, who composed and performed them, instruments used, and vocal interpretation. Dr. Köpp-Junk will then perform live several enchanting love songs and recitals translated from the original papyri—while playing a replica ancient Egyptian lute from New Kingdom Egypt.

Don't miss this historic, once-in-a-lifetime experience from the ancient world!

*Advance ticket sales ONLY. Secure Paypal credit-card processing.
(No Paypal account needed. Multiple ticket purchases OK. All sales final.)*

Buy Now

OR purchase tickets at:

<http://www.egyptexploration.org/concert.html>

At center, an ancient Egyptian musician playing a lute.

A portion of proceeds from this fundraising event support EEO/SC activities, including Egyptology-related research and student scholarships.

